

THE CHRISTIAN ECHO

G. P. Bowser, who preached often in Michigan, began a journal in 1902 in Nashville, TN to help black churches keep in better contact with each other. It has continued publication for over a century and the Southwestern Christian College in Terrell, TX now prints it. Very few copies of the earliest publications are known to exist, but Don Haymes, archivist for the Christian Theological Seminary in Indianapolis, has facilitated getting known copies preserved on microfilm.
