AUGUST 2011

DALNET Upgrades to Horizon 7.51a and HIP 3.21a

The end of July saw the implementation of DALNET's long awaited upgrade to the newest version of Horizon and HIP. The greatest gain in this upgrade is the update of much of the Horizon infrastructure, including an updated server operating system, implementation of the latest Sybase databases software, and Horizon compatibility for Windows 7 (also backwards compatible to Windows XP and Vista). On the public side, the new catalogs have the ability to search all DALNET shared-system library collections in each catalog.

Some additional post-upgrade tasks will be guided by the DALNET office this month. The office will also be focusing on completion of the Authority File project that was started earlier in the summer. In September/October members can plan on the launch of the new BookMyne mobile app for our catalogs.

Registration is now open for the post-upgrade training day on Monday, August 15. Participants will be introduced to new features, options, and staff client changes in this overview of Horizon 7.5.1a.
